

Flood Covers Town

Pours Over 80 Per Cent Of Fairbanks

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Flood waters surged through this interior Alaska city of 30,000 today, forcing evacuation of most of the downtown area and causing heavy damage.

Mayor H.A. Boucher reported the situation to Gov. Walter Hickel from the only telephone line still open.

"At this point," he said early today, "there isn't a home in the city not flooded, and 80 per cent of our businesses have suffered major damage. Obviously the damage will run well into the millions. It is the worst flood in anyone's memory here."

Many persons were reported stranded, but there were no reports of injuries.

St. Joseph's Hospital had been evacuated and at least 62 patients moved to Basset Army Hospital at nearby Ft. Wainwright. Those evacuated from their private homes were taken to schools in higher areas of the city.

The city lies on a generally flat plain with the Chena River, one of the three rain-swollen rivers in the area, looping through the center.

Boucher estimated the water on the Chena was 5 to 6 feet above flood stage at 3 a.m. Alaska Standard Time and still rising as rain continued to saturate the area.

He said there was an average of 1 to 5 feet of water throughout the downtown area.

The mayor expressed grave concern about the possibility of fire. He said all police cars and fire engines were flooded and only a few Army half-track vehicles were able to move about.

The Fairbanks Airport, he said, was open but the road to the airport was flooded.

Gov. Hickel planned to fly from Juneau to Fairbanks later today to view the damage and meet with the mayor and military officials.

The governor said state and federal agencies were preparing to send in food and clothing to Fairbanks and Nenana, 50 miles southwest of here. He declared both communities disaster areas Monday.

Clinton Man Hurt In Mishap

George Leon Mount, Jr., 23, Clinton, was critically injured about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday when he apparently lost control of his car, a late model Pontiac two door sedan, on a curve on the Green Ridge road near the old Thunderbowl Speedway, overturned and came to rest in a field. Mount was taken to Sedalia and then rushed to the University Medical Center at Columbia.

At noon Tuesday Mount's condition was listed as satisfactory by the Medical Center.

Trooper S. E. Morris, of the State Highway Patrol, who investigated the accident, reported the car skidded considerably at the crest of the hill which is on a curve, went to the left side of the pavement and off the blacktop.

The car after leaving the pavement, went along the shoulder for a short distance, then down off the shoulder along a small ditch. As the car traveled westward, the right front wheel struck a ditch knocking the front end under the car and causing it to swerve, tearing out several hedge fence posts and smashing a new farm gate. The car was believed to have gone end-for-end and rolled coming to a stop on its wheels. From the point the car left the pavement to where it stopped, Trooper Morris reported it traveled about 390 feet.

Clyde Upton, Green Ridge, noticed the gate torn out and the car in the field. He went on west a short distance turned around and went back to investigate and found Mount in the car. Some other young men who came along stopped and he sent them to a farm home

Pact On Sewer

Agreement Opens Way For Construction Start

An agreement reached by the city of Sedalia and E. W. Thompson Monday afternoon opened the way for construction of a $48,000 Firestone retail outlet just east of Biederman's, Mayor Ralph Walker said today.

Building permits on the Firestone store had been ordered withheld by the Citizens Sewer Bond Steering Committee until a question over sewer easements in the affected area could be settled.

The settlement of the sewer easement issue, Mayor Walker emphasized Tuesday morning, will not mean any expense to the general Sedalia taxpayer. All cost of the construction projects, he said, would be assessed against property owners in the district directly benefitting from the new sewer lines.

The agreement signed by Thompson and Walker Monday stipulates:

"The proposed main sewer in District No. 147 is to be extended by the city of Sedalia under a benefit district project from the present terminus to the property line of the south boundary line of Thompson Hills Shopping Center tract, a distance of approximately 300 feet;

After Hearings

Still Unconvinced On A Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House Ways and Means Committee told administration officials today they still have not made a case for the 10 per cent income tax surcharge President Johnson seeks.

During their second day of testimony before the tax-writing committee, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Chairman Gardner Ackley of the Council of Economic Advisors were pressed for an explanation that would make sense to the voters.

"We're going to have to satisfy the people on two counts," Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said. He said taxpayers will have to be convinced that they are better off now than they were five years ago and that even after the surcharge is added they will pay less tax than they had before the 1964 tax reduction.

Ullman said that, taking into account increases in state and local taxes, he is not sure this would be the case.

"My judgment is that a tax increase is justified, but I believe I am in a minority on this committee," Ullman added.

Joining Ullman in predicting a tough fight for the bill was Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., who said, "I doubt that any members of this committee are committed to it and many of us have many reservations about it."

Republicans planned to press Johnson's first-string fiscal team about the extent of administration budget-cutting Congress can expect if it approves the surcharge.

Killed Riding A Skateboard

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Eight-year-old Michael Walters was killed by a car while he was riding a skateboard Monday.

Police said the boy was riding the skateboard on his stomach in the street and was struck by a car that pulled to the curb to park.

The driver, Lawrence C. Peterson, 73, said he didn't see the boy.

Many Still Live In Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite dramatic economic progress since 1959, more than one in every seven Americans still lives on poverty income.

And while the number of whites at the government-determined poverty level dipped by almost 29 per cent in the eight-year period, the rate of decline for Negroes was only 9 per cent.

Census Bureau figures released Monday showed the total number of Americans living on poverty incomes dropped from 39 million to 30 million since 1959.

The number of whites dropped from 28 million to 20 million, the number of Negroes from 11 million to 10 million.

Grizzly Bent On Killing Couldn't Be Driven Away

WEST GLACIER, Mont. (AP) — Four terror-stricken young people who saw one of their friends killed by a grizzly bear in a Glacier National Park say they tried everything they knew to drive away the marauding animal.

They built a bonfire, but it didn't scare the bear.

They lay motionless in their sleeping bags, but the bear attacked anyway.

One youth even punched the bear with his fist, he said, but the grizzly kept coming.

Paul R. Dunn, 16, a high school junior from Edina, Minn., screamed: "He's got her in the sleeping bag and he's dragging her up the hill!"

The students, who had come to the scenic park for a working vacation, told their story Monday after escaping from the maddened bear, which threatened them for hours before finally attacking and killing Michele Koons, 19, of San Diego, Calif., early Sunday.

Twenty miles from the campsite where Michele died, another 19-year-old girl, Julie Helgeson of Albert Lea, Minn., was killed in her sleeping bag by another park bear during the same night. One of her companions, Roy Ducat, 18, of Perrysburg, Ohio, was seriously injured.

A hunt continued today for the killer bears after park rangers shot and killed two grizzlies Monday in the area where Miss

Plane Shot Down Near Red China

Two-Man Crew Is Missing

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command announced today that the North Vietnamese shot down a U.S. Navy reconnaissance plane Sunday, apparently while it was photographing damage from a raid only 10 miles from Red China's border.

The RA5C Vigilante's two-man crew was listed as missing. The plane was the 642nd U.S. warplane announced as lost over the North so far in the war.

Navy planes raided the Lang Son railroad and highway bridge Sunday in what were the closest raids to Red China in the Vietnam war. They followed up with raids on nearby targets Monday.

U.S. B52 bombers raided the southern half of the demilitarized zone today, for the second time in three days and dumped tons of explosives on what the command described as extensive North Vietnamese artillery and antiaircraft positions.

The stepped up raids by the eight-engine Stratofortresses, each capable of carrying up to 50,000 pounds of bombs, indicated that the Communists may be building up for another sustained drive on U.S. Marine outposts at Con Thien and Dong Ha just south of the zone.

Both outposts were heavily shelled in June and the first week of July, but shelling has been infrequent since tactical fighter-bombers gave the area a going over.

Monday's raids near the Chinese border were among 134 missions over North Vietnam logged by Air Force and carrier-based Navy fighter-bombers. The other strikes included a number on rail sidings, highway bridges, surface-to-air missile sites and fuel storage areas in the Hanoi-Haiphong areas.

The strikes around the North's two major cities were somewhat limited because of heavy thunderstorms.

Ground action in South Vietnam was virtually at a standstill. The U.S. Command said there were no significant contacts reported in 34 allied operations of battalion size or larger.

These included the newly announced "Operation Portland," a multibattalion search and destroy operation by elements of the U.S. Army's 1st Division about 70 miles north of Saigon. The operation began Saturday, but was not announced until today for security reasons. No

Ike And Ev Agree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen joins former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in defending President Johnson's decision to bomb North Vietnam targets only 10 miles from Red China.

Eisenhower, commander of allied military forces in Europe in World War II, and Dirksen said separately but in almost identical words that military targets were involved and the air attacks should be continued.

The White House, meanwhile, declined any comment on the latest U.S. air assaults.

Eisenhower and Dirksen said they do not believe such near-border raids risk bringing Red China into the conflict—a contention made in the Senate Monday by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and echoed by Republican Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky. In the face of this split of Republican opinion, Eisenhower told a news conference as he left Walter Reed

Army Hospital after a 10-day stay, he hopes the conduct of the war does not become an issue in next year's presidential campaign. He said he doesn't want to be among those who might make it one.

"What do politicians know about conducting a war?" he asked. "We must use force and get done with it."

Eisenhower said he believes the war should be pursued, "with the idea of winning it." He added: "You should get everything you can, and use it as fast as you can, and get it over with as quickly as possible because war is a nasty thing."

Dirksen said in an interview he is satisfied legitimate military targets were hit in the raids to within 10 miles of the Red Chinese border. He said he is certain American fliers have been instructed thoroughly in avoiding Red Chinese air space.

"I think it's necessary and I don't think it's dangerous," he said. "I haven't heard of any protest from China."

Accuses Military

SAIGON (AP) — Tran Van Huong, considered the leading civilian candidate for president of South Vietnam, implied today that soldiers would be able to vote twice for his military opponents—once at their bases and once at home.

At a news conference, the former premier charged that soldiers had been issued voting cards from both their home district and their base district.

He also charged the current military regime with intimidating his representatives in the provinces and said unless his warning led to reform, "we shall be compelled to reconsider our participation in the election."

But he said he would be with the other nine civilian candidates when they go to nearby Bien Hoa to start a campaign tour for the Sept. 3 election in which the military ticket—Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky for vice president—is expected to win.

"We view this election as a contract between ourselves and the nation to see if democracy will be established," Huong said. "For that reason we will make every effort to continue to campaign and we shall only adopt a different attitude when we are completely convinced there is no other way out."

Groceries Will Cost About Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — Your groceries in the coming year will cost about what they did this year, the Agriculture Department said today.

But while the department forecast little change in grocery store prices for food, it predicted diners in restaurants will find their bill for food about one per cent higher.

The average person, said the department, probably will spend $485 to $490 next year for food, compared with $472 last year.

The average person will eat more pork, poultry, eggs, rice, citrus fruit and frozen vegetables while cutting down on veal, lamb, most dairy products, non-citrus fruits, melons and dry beans, said the department in a report.

Michele Koons

Julie Helgeson

Helgeson was slain. Tests were being made on those bears to try to determine whether one was the killer.

With Dunn and Miss Koons were Denise Huckle, 19, of Sam Manuel, Calif., and a junior at the University of Arizona and Ronald A. Noseck, 21, and his brother, Ray T. 23, both of Oracle, Ariz. The Nosecks are dental students at the University of Louisville.

Saturday they had hiked to Trout Lake in a wild area in the western part of the park for a campout.

Two campers they met on the trail told of being chased up a tree by a grizzly.

They pitched camp and caught some fish. Then while cooking hot dogs, the wind blew their campsite smoke into the trees and Michele said, "there's a bear."

The bear invaded the camp and the four ran 50 yards down the lakefront. It ate their food and left with Michel's travel bag in its teeth.

"We discussed whether to stay where we were or try to go back," Dunn said. "It was dark and we weren't sure of the trail, so we built a big bonfire."

They saw the bear again standing on a logjam in the lake.

"None of us really slept," Ray Noseck said. "We just kept putting wood on the fire."

"About two o'clock my little dog, Squirt, started growling and I heard something in the water," Denise Huckle said. "I knew there was a bear near us."

"We stayed real close to the fire," Dunn said. "My feet really got hot."

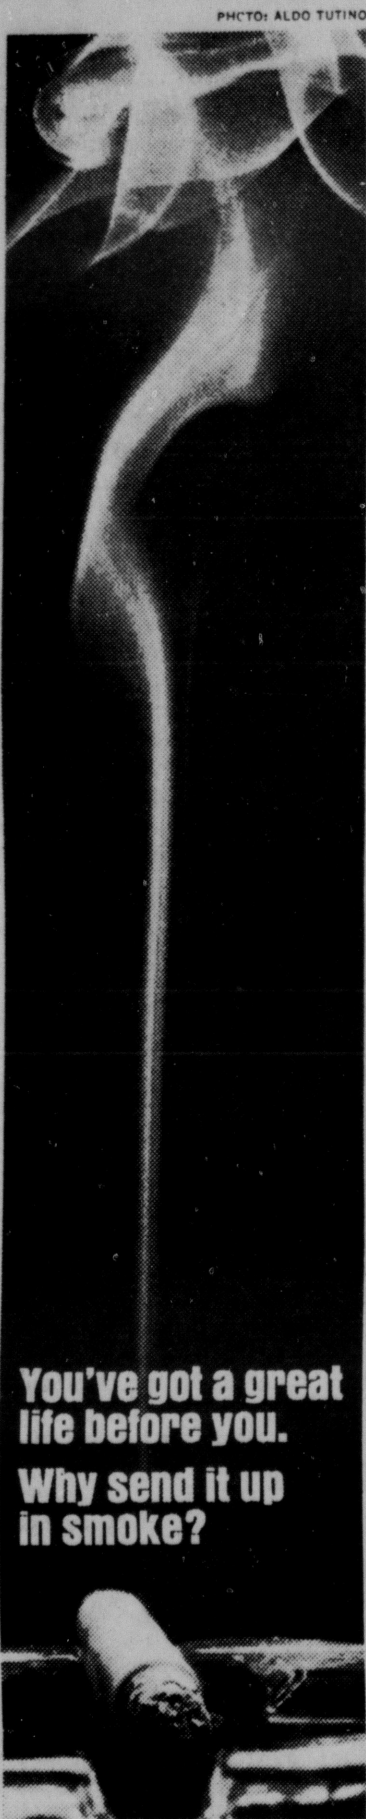

"A couple of times the bear came very close to the fire," Dunn said. They got in their sleeping bags and covered their heads with blankets.

Between 2 a.m. and 4:30 a.m., the bear stayed at the edge of the area lit by the campfire, moving about in the brush.

"When the attack started, I was the first to see the bear," Miss Huckle said. "Squirt started to squeal. I looked over a log and the bear was loping straight toward the camp. The fire was big and I could see his face and the upper half of his body. Then about four or five feet from me, he stopped."

"By that time I was back under the covers," she said. "All of a sudden he grabbed one of the packs and we could hear him ripping the pack. Then he stopped and I could hear him breathing. I kept Squirt very quiet."

"Then he came toward me," See Grizzly, Page 4

Negroes Fear Right to Die

(Second in a Series.)

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—There have been two legal executions performed in the United States this year and it is statistically in keeping that one of the victims was Negro.

This is tradition. According to the Department of Justice, approximately one of every two convicts executed in the last 37 years has been colored. The official count of gasings, hangings, electrocutions and civil shootings since 1930 is: 2,066 Negroes, 1,750 whites, 43 of other races.

And there is no indication of any future reversal of the percentage. More Negroes are currently in prison death houses than ever before. As of the beginning of the year there were 225 of them, some 50 in excess of their white peer population.

Obviously, such statistics disturb America's black community.

"Why?" asks a Catholic priest in Harlem. "Negroes comprise only about 11 per cent of the country's population, but 53 per cent of its executions. My question is why?"

Police on the beat have a stock answer. And it is an honest answer. They say that Negroes predominate in the kind of lower socioeconomic class that is likely to commit crimes of frustration and violence, crimes that lead to the gallows.

Law officers insist that the disproportion of Negro executions is to be expected since, they say, there is a disproportion of Negro arrests, because, they say, there is a disproportion of Negroes engaging in capital offenses.

Not surprisingly, Negroes doubt this explanation.

Charges a New York member of the NAACP: "The reason more Negroes are executed is because black men facing the chair haven't the same chance as white men. They haven't the same money, they haven't the same friends and they haven't the same sympathy."

DISPROPORTIONATE NUMBER of Negroes in death houses.

Some white observers concur.

"I have never seen a person of means go to the chair," says former Ohio Gov. Mike Disalle (1959 through 1962). "The poor, the illiterate, the underprivileged, the member of the minority group is society's blood sacrifice."

Negro history books are full of examples. Some of the more tragic:

- In the middle of the 18th century, rebellious colored slaves were legally and summarily burned at the stake in various parts of New York and New Jersey.

- In 1936, more than 20,000 spectators gathered at Owensburg, Ky., to witness a court-ordered Negro hanging which was the last public execution held in the nation.

- In 1912, Virginia Chris-tion, 17, a Negro, became the youngest girl ever executed in America. In 1944, George Stinney Jr., 14, a Negro, became the youngest boy.

But past examples do not gall Negro observers nearly so much as do present. They point especially to the South where they claim the death houses are scandalously dominated by black occupants and where 75 per cent of all black executions have taken place.

Figures bear out the complaint. Ten Negroes and one white are awaiting execution today in South Carolina. In Georgia it's 12 and 7 respectively. In Florida it's 36 to 15. It's 6 to 0 in Tennessee, 13 to 6 in Alabama, 11 to 0 in Arkansas.

And the death records are equally lopsided. According to numbers kept between 1930 and 1965, 17 southern states registered 1,659 black executions to 636 white; 1,100 of the Negroes were killed in only 7 of the states, 298 in Georgia alone.

Considering these figures, then, it is little wonder that civil rightists are among the starchiest antiexecution workers in the nation. Says an NAACP member: "We're sometimes known as the National Association for the Abolition of Capital Punishment."

Few people would dispute that the Negroes have a valid claim for such concern. Penologists agree that discrimination is a justifiable argument against CP since it is well known some states have tailored capital punishment to fit the black offender.

Florida, as example, has made a penetrating study of the equality of the death penalty laws and the findings are embarrassing.

According to the study, the United States executed 449 men for rape between 1930 and 1963 and 90 per cent of those condemned were Negro. During the same period, Florida executed 36 men for rape and 35 were Negroes.

There are, of course, a few Negro rapists who aren't expeditiously electrocuted. In AVON-BY-THE-SEA, N. J. (AP)—Deep sea divers are descending to the cold depths of the Atlantic Ocean in hope of unravelling a 25-year-old mystery of whether sunken oil tankers are seeping their cargoes to the surface.

President Johnson ordered the pilot project undertaken to determine whether any of the 103 tankers sunk off American shores—most of them victims of German submarines during World War II—pose an oil pollution threat to the coastline.

Divers, using underwater television cameras, went 90 feet to the ocean bottom Monday to examine the Gulftrade, a tanker sliced in two by a German torpedo in 1942. It sank with a loss of 18 lives and carried 4 million gallons of oil to the bottom.

Coast Guard officials said there was no apparent trace of oil. Today the divers investigate the R.P. Resor, which also was torpedoed off the South Jersey shore in 1942. Both ships are within 14 miles of the coastline. If any oil is discovered, officials said, it will be siphoned off.

"Little is known about what happened to the ships and their cargoes during their years at the bottom of the sea," said Donald G. Agger of the U.S. Department of Transportation which is supervising the project with the Coast Guard.

"This venture," he said, "is in many ways a mystery story."

Officials were unable to say if all 103 sunken tankers will be investigated.

Authorities speculated oil oozing from the tankers may have caused the oil pollution to Cape Cod beaches in Massachusetts and killed 6,000 wild sea ducks off the South Jersey coast. Both incidents occurred last April, shortly after the tanker Torrey Canyon ran aground near Cornwall, England, leaving a slick of millions of gallons of thick black oil that coated British shores.

Dealers Have Their Problems, Too

INSPECTING THE ENGINE is O.K., says auto dealer Joe Herson, but pushing a fender to check the suspension does seem a bit silly.

By BOB COCHNAR and DAVE BURGIN
NEA Automotive Writers

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Wearing a smile that stretched around behind the ears, the customer took the keys from Joe Herson and slid in behind the wheel of his shiny new Porsche 912.

Herson looked the guy squarely in his happy eyes and said, slowly and sadly, "Well, there's only one thing wrong with this car."

The customer paled, as if walking through a magnificent, flower-filled forest with a fair princess only to stumble upon King Kong. For six weeks he'd shopped for his car, saved money, fretted over a car loan, and now the dealer was telling him there's only one thing wrong with his new car.

"Only one thing wrong?" the customer gulps.

"Yeah," Joe Herson growls. "I don't own it."

The wit isn't cruel, really. The customer loved it, will tell his friends and, most important to Joe Herson, he'll be back for more business.

Herson is president of three Washington area outlets and the whole operation amounts to one of the largest sports car dealerships in the world. Not incidentally, the capital also has one of the country's highest sports car per capita ratios.

But today, any automotive dealership is fraught with problems — problems which make it one of the toughest businesses on the American scene. There is the service problem with its incredibly high overhead. To sell a car is to deal also with a customer's driving record, insurance company and bank. Because of registration and licensing, local and state governments enter the picture.

Even so, the auto dealer's biggest problem is the subtle one of image—the idea that John Q. Public has that every auto dealer is out to sucker him. That isn't true. In the auto business, as it is in anything, it's a case of a few spoiling it for many.

"The thing is," Herson said, "in the auto business it's more dramatic. When a man who lays out anywhere from $2,000 to $10,000 for a car, new or used, and gets burned, he blames every dealer and not just the guilty one."

Herson works hard at image, particularly in the area of service, where he estimates his firm directs as much as three-quarters of its time and half its money.

"That may sound confusing," he said. "When you sell a $3,000 car, you have to do $3,000 worth of service business to match it. But that's not really accurate either because we don't—we can't—do service business just to make a profit. The reason for service is to keep a customer."

The car-buying public obviously isn't tuned in on service overhead. It is a major problem confronting the U.S. auto industry today, doubly so for those dealing in foreign cars. First, there is roughly one mechanic for every 173 cars sold. Second, technology is moving so fast that it's a struggle for the dealer to stay with it.

"Still, the customer is right," Herson said. "Sometimes it's hard to get employees to practice that philosophy, but when a guy plops down big bread, he wants servicing done right—the first time—and I don't blame him."

Herson, whose late father started in the automotive scrap business in 1914, now runs the company along with other family members. They sell BMC cars, Jaguar, Porsche and Alpha Romeo, plus a complete line of parts and accessories.

"I believe a car salesman has to be just as serious as a customer is," he explained. "The customer is spending a lot of money, remember?"

Herson gets a boot out of tire-kicker types, the serious-looking "experts" who really come in for car education but are too proud to admit it. Instead they bounce the car a couple of times and proclaim, "Hmmm, the suspension seems O.K."

The firm is in the sports car business because, Joe said, "My father believed there'd always be a market for the small car in this country. He began selling Crosleys in 1938."

Cinerama Used To Advantage

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
MADRID (AP)—The dark, unassuming young man rattled Spanish with fluent ease and seemed like one of the native workers on the movie set.

But he was the director, and he comes from the San Fernando Valley in California. His name: Bernard Kowalski.

The director was rehearsing a climactic scene for "East of Java" with his principal players: Maximilian Schell, Diane Baker, Rossano Brazzi, Sal Mineo and Barbara Werle. Speaking in quiet tones, he drilled them in their lines again and again until he was satisfied. Then he released them for lunch.

Bernie Kowalski sat in a corner of the set and mused about the massive change in his career as a film maker: "Until this time I have been dealing with the small screen. Now for my first feature I've got the biggest screen of all."

A television veteran, Kowalski now faces the challenge of the limitless possibilities of Cinerama, in which "East of Java" is being filmed. Having titillated the public with everything from roller coaster rides to speed-car racing, the Cinerama people are going all-out in this one. Everything is included, from hurricanes to underwater exploration to balloon ascension, ending with the explosion of the volcano Krakatoa, right there on the big curving screen.

You might think that all this would overwhelm Bernie Kowalski, who trained in "Perry Mason" and "Rawhide." Not at all.

"I've been in the picture business for 32 years," he reckons. "So I'm ready for anything that comes along." Bernie was born in Brownsville, Tex., a true American, being of Polish, German, French, Mexican, Indian and Jewish parentage. His father moved the family to Los Angeles and became an assistant director in the studios. Bernie started helping the family treasury at 5, as a boy actor.

After leaving Loyola University

BABY MAKES THREE on this bicycle built for two-and-a-half at Carbondale, Ill., where Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Inkley and Laura use it for transportation around Southern Illinois University, where Mr. Inkley is a graduate student.

ty in Los Angeles, he worked in almost every studio department, later became a director during the explosion of TV series filming. He developed into a specialist in pilot films and scored an amazing 1,000 batting average in his last four: "Mission: Impossible," "Rat Patrol," "The Monroes" and next season's "N.Y.P.D."

He found that his television background proved invaluable for improvising under pressure. It also helped that he could communicate immediately with the Spanish crew; he spoke Spanish at home during his childhood.

How does he make the artistic transfer from small to big screen?

"I am treating the Cinerama screen with great respect," he remarked. "I think Frankenstein did a fine job with 'Grand Prix,' using quick cuts to heighten the drama. The tendency in Cinerama has been to employ wide-angle shots that show everybody in the scene."

"I'm not doing that. I'm cutting quickly from one shot to another so things happen. I'm also devoting much care to the characters. I think if you have a bunch of people the audience cares about, then you can build up to the big scenic effects with no difficulty."

Dark Bourbon:

It's not the kind of whiskey
you learn on.

This isn't beginner's whiskey. This is dark, deep-flavored Bourbon. Bourbon the way it used to be. Prime, copper-stilled whiskey. Fixed with lots of handwork. And nothing but pure, fresh goods. With more of the small grains. And a sour mash that goes back more than 75 years. Hill and Hill Preferred. It isn't beginner's Bourbon. But it is an education.

OBITUARIES

Bertha Mason (Sedalia)

Mrs. Bertha Mason, 81, formerly of 516 W. 5th, died at the Simmons Rest Home, 1217 W. Main at 10:25 a.m. Tuesday. She had been a patient at the Rest Home for the past four years.

Mrs. Mason was born at California, Mo., July 21, 1886, the daughter of the late John and Iwilda Clark Ison. Her early life was spent in the California community.

She was married in 1906 to Harry E. Hueston. They were the parents of one son. Mr. Hueston died in 1926.

She was married at Eldorado, Kansas, Jan. 19, 1927, to Ernest I. Mason, who preceded her in death July 28, 1950.

Mrs. Mason was also preceded in death by her only brother, Lewis W. Ison, who died June 1, 1956.

Mrs. Mason was a member of the East Sedalia Baptist Church and V.F.W. Auxiliary. She was a past president of the V.F.W. Auxiliary.

She is survived by her son, Lewis Edward Hueston, Palmdale, Calif., and one granddaughter, Mrs. Laverna Haskell, Cohasset, Mass. Four great grandchildren also survive.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Ollie Morris (California)

Mrs. Ollie Morris, 94, California, died at 12:10 p.m. Monday in California.

Born Aug. 6, 1873 near High Point, she was the daughter of John and Ruth Radcliffe Wilson. In 1890 she was married to Dr. H. R. Morris, who was a dentist in California for 44 years. Dr. Morris died in April 1940.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Walter Hert, with whom she made her home in recent years, and Mrs. Rella Johnson, Park City, Utah, five grandchildren, eight great grandchildren and nine great great grandchildren.

She was a member of the First Christian Church. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Bowlin Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. Cecil Swinehardt to officiate.

Jack Bowlin will sing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" accompanied by Mrs. J. D. Branch at the organ.

Burial will be in the Masonic Cemetery.

Hire Custodian

Clarence Schell of Sedalia has been hired as the new custodian for the County Courthouse.

The Courthouse was without a custodian for about a week during which time Presiding Judge Henry Lamm was put to work cutting the Courthouse lawn.

After the ambulance arrived those who helped to get Mount out of the car said they had difficulty in freeing him from under the steering wheel.

Gillespie's ambulance took Mount to Sedalia to the Bothwell Hospital where Dr. J. W. Maunders rendered emergency treatment and then had him sent to the University Medical Center at Columbia. He appeared to be suffering from a depressed fracture of the skull along his forehead, multiple lacerations and bruises.

The car was left in the field overnight.

developed. Prior to the agreement, the sewer line stopped within the boundaries of District 147, but now extends slightly beyond that.

The sewer parallel to Highway 50, heading west, also goes slightly beyond the original district. Neither one of these projects will mean any expense on the part of the city since the cost is to be assessed against the area benefitting from the sewers.

Besides the sewer lines the city will construct, Thompson, under the agreement, is to build a sewer line under private contract. The line will run parallel to Highway 50, but north of the Biederman Store and cutting across a roadway which connects Highway 50 with west Main Street.

Bill Rader, Director of the Extension Center in Sedalia, said that under the leadership of Fox and county youth leaders they have developed one of Missouri's outstanding Extension youth programs. The University Extension Council of Pettis County will consider a replacement for Fox's position soon, according to Mr. Sneed.

Escapee Returned To Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—George Ben Edmondson, who escaped two years ago from the minimum security ward of the Missouri Penitentiary, was returned to his cell Monday to finish his 10-year sentence.

Edmondson, 30, who was one of the FBI's most-wanted fugitives, was arrested June 29 in Montreal, Canada, where he was working at Expo 67. Someone saw his picture on the FBI's most-wanted list and notified authorities.

He was reported to the United States and picked up last week in Syracuse, N.Y. Missouri prison guards brought him back to Jefferson City.

Edmondson had served about six months of a 10-year sentence when he escaped on Aug. 3, 1965. He had pleaded guilty to the $5,000 holdup of two store employees who were about to make a bank deposit in Springfield Dec. 23, 1961. At the age of 17, he also was convicted of a $5,000 holdup of a bank in Republic, Mo.

A self-taught engineer, Edmondson was employed as chief engineer for construction of the German pavilion at Expo 67 and had a similar job on a $60 million pulp and paper mill project at Shawville, Quebec.

Girls Admit Starting Costly Fire

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two teen-age girls have admitted starting a $100,000 fire that destroyed five unoccupied townhouses in suburban Overland Park, Kan., Friday, police said.

Lt. John W. Patton said the girls, 13 and 14, signed statements Monday admitting they set fire to piles of paper and construction materials on the second floor of the building.

The girls said they liked to watch fires. Police said the girls also admitted starting several other fires in the housing development, but those blazes did not spread.

The girls were released in custody of their parents.

Police said delinquency charges will be filed against the two in Johnson County juvenile court.

Organize Club At Picnic Meet

The Ozark Friendly Club, or Hill Billy Picnic was held at Farrington Park in Windsor Aug. 6, with 114 persons attending. The group voted to name the organization the "Hill Billy Picnic" at this meeting.

A dinner was served. A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. John Tuckwiller, president. D. E. Berryman, vice-president, served as master of ceremonies.

Election of officers was held as follows, Cyrus Crowder, president; Clyde Cates, vice-president and Mrs. Claude Kays re-elected secretary-treasurer.

It was also voted that each family bring its own table service and drinks.

The following were appointed to advertise the picnic in their own area for 1968: Frank Sinnet, Slater; Clyde Cates, Creighton; Frank Ragg, Kansas City; Dorsey Kays, Independence; D. E. Berryman, Blackburn and Dallas Foster, Peculiar.

Talk On Retarded Children Here

Joseph E. Van Dyke, executive director of Missouri Association for Retarded Children, Jefferson City, will be in Sedalia Thursday, to speak on "Teaching the Mentally Retarded." The meeting will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the United Church of Christ, Fourth and Vermont.

Anyone interested in the mentally retarded or teaching these children may attend.

The meeting is under the direction of the curriculum committee of the Church School for the Retarded Children and Youths. Members of the committee are the Rev. Marvin Albright, Mrs. John Tevis and Miss Barbara Freund.

Mauricio Herrmann Dominguez from Guatemala City, Guatemala, will soon be arriving in Sedalia to become the 13th American Field Service student to make his home in Sedalia for the entire school year. He will live with the Robert Cain family, 1112 South Warren and will be enrolled as a senior at Smith-Cotton Junior-Senior High School.

Impossible To Have Uniformity

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP)—The Lewis and Clark Trail Commission conceded Monday that uniformity in signs marking sites along the route of the famed explorers is impossible.

A silhouette of the explorers is the image chosen for signs by the commission. But the Missouri-Lewis and Clark Trail Committee has authorized the use of a different symbol to mark off-trail sites.

And the Missouri group plans to continue using its symbol, said Dr. Charles H. Chapman, the Missouri representative on the commission which continued meetings here Monday.

The commission, created by Congress three years ago, concluded it cannot force use of its registered symbol because it has no enforcement authority.

Morgan B. Fjare, Montana state advertising director, reported that travel departments of eight of the 11 states along the Lewis and Clark Trail have agreed to budget funds for a full-color brochure on the route. He noted Washington and Oregon remain undecided on contributing, and that Idaho has refused.

Peace Corps Test Aug. 19

Sedalia area residents interested in serving with the Peace Corps in developing nations are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 19 at the main post office in either Kansas City or Jefferson City.

The test measures general aptitude and ability to learn a foreign language, NOT education or achievement. It is given to determine where and how an applicant will be happiest and best utilized overseas. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail. The test takes approximately one hour and a half.

Persons interested in serving with the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before the test. Application forms are available from local postoffices or from the Peace Corps in Washington, D.C., 20525.

Rotarians Hear Talk By Peters

Roy Lee Peters, project director, Office of Referral, Information, and Organization for the Mid-Missouri Community Action Corporation, was the principal speaker at the weekly meeting of the Sedalia Rotary, Monday at the Bothwell Hotel.

Peters explained the work of his particular office and in general that of the Mid-Missouri Community Action Corporation. He pointed out that the basic philosophy of his organization was built around a plan whereby the community gets together to combat poverty. The funds for the organization largely come from the federal government; however, the community is responsible for 20 per cent contribution towards the entire program. The Mid-Missouri CAC includes Pettis, Johnson, Morgan and Benton Counties.

Guests at Rotary Monday were John Bruch, member of the Warrensburg Rotary Club and Phil DeLong, Jefferson, Guest of Bob Lantis, Garland Groom gave the invocation. Emory Bowman lead the singing, and Charles Hofheins introduced the guests. Jess Summers, president, presided

Dunn said. "I could hear him come. I remained perfectly still and he just sniffed. It was kind of hard because I could hear him right above me, breathing. Then I heard a crunch into my sleeping bag. He bit half my shirt right off. I lifted up the covers and hit him. He reared back on his hind legs. I climbed a tree 30 feet high in 10 seconds. I saw the bear turn toward Ron."

"I yelled to Denise that we had to get out of there," Ron said.

"No, I can't," she replied. "I've got to undo the collar around Squirt's neck." The dog was tied in the sleeping bag with her.

"I kept watching," Ron said, "and the bear took several steps back and started for Michele. Denise and I jumped out of our bags and ran 50 yards down the beach."

"Ron shoved me up a tree," Denise said, "and tried to throw the dog up. I finally caught him."

Paul Dunn, who was in the tree, said: "All of a sudden Michele yelled, 'He's ripping my arm.' By that time, Ray had run down the beach but Michele couldn't get out of her bag. I heard something being dragged down the beach and I realized the bear had the sleeping bag."

"I said 'Michele, get out of your bag, run, climb a tree,' and she said, 'I can't, he's got the zipper.'"

"Then she screamed, 'Oh my God, I'm dead!'"

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I was a student nurse for two years but dropped out. While training I learned to give massages. It was the part of nursing I liked best and I was very good at it.

One night several weeks ago I was having dinner with my roommate and her boy friend in our apartment. He complained of a headache and a stiff neck so I offered to give him a massage. After 15 minutes he cheerfully announced that his neck felt wonderful and his headache had disappeared. He said I was terrific and asked if I would massage him twice a week.

Within the week, two of his friends called and asked if I would give them massages—for money, of course. I enjoy massaging and I'm always short of money, so I agreed.

Before long the word got around and I developed five steady customers. But here is the problem: A woman at the office told me I could get arrested for massaging without a license. Also she claims it is against the law to massage a person of the opposite sex.

Will you please advise me?—MAGIC FINGERS

Dear Magic: If you are interested in massaging as a career, complete your training and be a full-time physical therapist. State laws vary and you may or may not be breaking the law, depending on a number of factors which I won't go into here.

In my opinion any girl who values her reputation is foolish to run a part-time massage parlor in her apartment. She may be completely innocent but it looks terrible and she sets herself up as a target for a lot of ugly talk.

Dear Ann Landers: Bless you for printing letters from people who are fighting against mental illness. You have no idea how much strength and encouragement I have received from those letters and from your compassionate and encouraging comments.

I, too, am fighting to stay balanced and it is far more agonizing than trying to conquer T.B. or cancer or heart disease. Friends, relatives and neighbors have sympathy for someone who is physically ill, but they consider people with emotional problems dangerous or nutty characters who must be handled with care lest they snap and perform some act of violence.

Art Show Featuring Unclad

LONDON (AP) — A bevy of 138 nude paintings went on display today in London's Grosvenor Galleries.

"It's a very, very rare thing to see such a big exhibition of nudes," said a spokesman for the galleries. "Actually, none of us remembers such a big nude show before."

Why so many nude paintings? "Some years back we held a small show of nudes," explained the spokesman. "It was a great success, so we decided a larger show of nudes would be a greater success."

The pictures reveal the female human form in a wide variety of poses.

Here are but a few: "Reclining nude, seated nude, crouching nude, nude with knees bent, nude reclining on back, nude with hand mirror, nude combing hair, nude kneeling, nude with pigtail, nude with raised foot, draped nude, nude with hands behind back, seated nude with crossed legs, seated nude on couch and reclining nude with blue shawl."

For off-beat nudity there are: "Chinese nude, red nude, nude fantasy, and nude girl with silk whip."

He Vetoed the Raise

In our new office we have a picture of Governor Warren E. Hearnes whose smiling countenance greets us each morning.

We hope he continues to smile at us. We did him a disservice by stating he had signed the catchall $19,191,000 appropriation bill ten days ago without offering verbal protest to Missouri legislators who tried to make a salary raise effective this year.

Governor Hearnes didn't sign the bill until Friday. Among five items he vetoed was the October 13 salary increase for legislators from $4,800 to $8,400. This veto action by the governor followed a ruling by Attorney General Anderson that the salary increase does not go into effect until start of the 1969 legislature.

The premature announcement about the governor signing the catchall appropriations bill makes my face as red as those of the assemblymen who ineffectively tried to slip $525,000 out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

At this juncture we would like to embellish favorable comment about Governor Hearnes by calling attention to state-wide acceptance of his forthright declaration made recently in Marshall on the subject of civil disorder.

He took a firm and responsible position against disturbances bordering on anarchy which have been plaguing the nation. He emphasized that "killing, fire and pillage transcend any plausible label of justifiable grievance because widespread tolerance of such lawlessness denies understanding or faith in our democratic processes.

"These processes are not infallible, but they do allow more unfettered criticism and opposition to elected leaders than any government ever yet devised on earth.

"No city or state within this nation can be a partner to dissolution of our moral strength or forget that in any civilization murder is murder, arson is arson and stealing is stealing—regardless of real or alleged reasons given for them. We cannot exist in chaos because chaos is weakening and debilitating to any society founded for mutual protection and progress.

"Let those of us who believe in the democratic way admit its processes move more slowly than a dictator's decree. But let others also admit that a fire bomb does not destroy the root of whatever grievance they claim; the fire bomb only destroys the foundation of mutual and concerted dedications to, and within, the structure of necessary law and order."

Governor Hearnes emphasized that his administration "will continue its hopes—and especially its prayers—that Missouri will be spared civil disorders ... but if our prayers are not answered, every measure within our power will be taken to quickly and effectively quell any such disorder."

The governor's determination has the support of all law-abiding Missourians opposed to criminal activities of anyone bent on sabotage and anarchy.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Romney Plans to Challenge Nixon

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—Michigan's square-jawed Gov. George Romney, in a bid for unity in liberal Republican ranks, recently offered to withdraw as a presidential contender and throw his support to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The New York Governor emphatically rejected the offer. His wife, Happy, told the Romneys with emotion: "We aren't going to walk down that path again."

Rockefeller repeated his determination to help win the nomination for Romney. Rockefeller subsequently has given every indication that he intends to keep his promise.

As a result, Romney has gone ahead with plans to challenge Richard Nixon in the nation's first presidential primary, in New Hampshire, a vital hurdle for both men.

New Hampshire is probably the only state where Nixon's popularity, fanned by a conservative press, is higher than that of the crusading Michigan Governor. Confidential polls show Nixon leading Romney in New Hampshire by two to one.

Romney hopes to come from behind by barnstorming the state and looking the voters in the eye. His two-fisted personality, which has won him unprecedented victories in Michigan, should have an impact in New Hampshire as well.

As his hole card, however, Romney hopes to get the endorsement of Nixon's 1960 running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, who won a surprising victory in the 1964 New Hampshire primary—though he was on the other side of the world as U.S. Ambassador in South Vietnam.

Public relations man Robert Mullen, who has worked closely with Lodge in the past, is quietly trying to line up the Lodge forces behind Romney. After Lodge's return from Saigon, Romney spoke to him on the phone, but didn't ask outright for his support.

Romney's supporters are also seeking the endorsement of ex-President Eisenhower, who privately has said he would like to see Romney become the Republican nominee.

In a home where there are three children the mother is being driven crazy by the youngsters wanting to make money to go to the fair. Nobody will do any kind of job unless they get paid for it.

When the mother asked Lucy, eight years old, and her youngest, to clean the bathroom, the child looked at her and asked: "What for?" "For some lovin'" her mother told her.

"No," the little girl shook her head, "I've already had too much of that!" — H. L.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — When can I expect to get my W-2 from my employer?

A — Employers are required to issue Form W-2 by the end of January but many do so earlier.

Q — Can anyone use the figures for state gas tax deductions that are given in the 1040 instruction booklet?

A — These figures are provided as a convenience for those taxpayers who deduct state gasoline tax when they itemize deductions. If you are entitled to claim this deduction then you may use the table instead of doing the calculations yourself.

Q — If my wife and I file separately instead of jointly, can one itemize while the other uses the standard deduction?

A — No. Married couples filing separate returns must handle their expenses the same way. If one itemizes the other must too.

Married couples filing separately must also take the same type of standard deduction. If one takes the minimum standard deduction they both must take it.

Q — Are you going to offer tax assistance over the phone again?

A — Yes. Check the local phone directory for the number to call.

RAY CROMLEY

The Problem Is in the Home

By RAY CROMLEY,
Washington Correspondent,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A survey made by this reporter of data from 12 states coast-to-coast indicates a pattern in the clandestine narcotics and liquor selling, dope addiction, glue sniffing and prostitution in a sizable number of high schools and even junior high and intermediate schools.

From South Boston there are reports of traveling liquor stores that do a boom business selling cheap liquor and wine to youngsters at black market prices.

From Washington state and the Northwest comes the report that teen-agers in some numbers engage in prostitution to raise money for pep pills, marijuana or LSD. That information is echoed from coast-to-coast.

In upper New York state, a principal of a middle-class neighborhood elementary school reports picking up one, two and sometimes three or four empty tubes of airplane glue daily on school grounds.

On some high school and college campuses in a number of states, it is reported marijuana is as easy to acquire as candy bars.

From Alabama, there are reports of open sex facilities where teen-agers can bring their girl friends for illicit relations.

In Massachusetts, reports tell of teen-agers taking spiked oranges to school in their lunch boxes. Hypodermic needles are used to shoot gin, scotch or vodka into the fruit.

These phenomena are no respecters of neighborhood, state or race. The data comes from middle-class suburbs, from the poor sections of town and from high-income neighborhoods. The youth involved are both white and Negro. At one leading East Coast university, where surveys indicated 15 per cent of the students had taken marijuana, hashish or LSD, reports indicated two-thirds of the group were on the dean's list of superior students.

In New York state, one day the police arrested 23 youngsters on charges of peddling narcotics. The youth were a cross section of the middle-class community. Only one was a Negro.

The pattern in these 12 states was in the homes. The officer described a group he had in custody: The parents gave them liberal allowances. Some had cars. There was no supervision.

In most cases, officials reported absent or overly permissive parents.

Some officials said of the youngsters they arrested on narcotics charges that there was no stable, significant male adult whose strength the addict could absorb. The father was dead, or weak, or he had abandoned the family, either physically or morally. If the father lived at home, he was a big drinker or spent his time in making money. The mother was the big shot. She had subdued the father.

Often the young dope addicts have been protected by their parents from the consequences of their actions. They've never known the cost of wrongdoing. Their parents have continually made excuses. When their youngsters have been caught, they have often pulled strings and the charges dropped.

Officials working on the problem complain that parents don't seem concerned enough to give their children the supervision they should. One Virginia judge has been quoted as saying that if parents gave their children a strong sense of direction and moral values, juvenile offenses would drop drastically.

This is a problem we can't throw at the government. Only an aroused citizenry can change things.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Consultation on Problems Benefits You and Dentist

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: My dentist says I need lots of dental work. Practically my whole mouth needs rebuilding—6 crowns, some extractions and a lower partial denture. I've been going to my dentist for many years, and I trust him and want him to do the work, but it's such a big investment in time, money and worry, I'd like to get another opinion. How can I do this without embarrassing or even antagonizing him?

A—If your dentist is trying to do what's best for you, and if he's an honest fellow, knowledgeable in his work and experienced with all the problems involved, he'll welcome the opportunity of sharing responsibility with a consultant. He won't be embarrassed and certainly won't get mad.

Many dentists take the initiative and insist on consultations before complicated dental reconstruction work is undertaken. The periodontist, orthodontist, oral surgeon and endodontist are frequently asked for advice.

But if you seek advice, do it properly. Be honest and direct about it. Tell your dentist what you've told me. Assuming he has performed all necessary diagnostic procedures, such as study models,

Opponents Give South Overtricks

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The higher the contract the fewer choices declarer and defenders have. A one no-trump contract gives both sides every chance to do well or badly.

Jack Blair of Tulsa looked over dummy and didn't think much of what he saw. The heart lead did look encouraging and he played the eight from dummy. East took his ace and returned the suit. Jack ducked and West was in with the queen. West, playing safe, led a third heart. Jack cashed two heart tricks and discarded two clubs from dummy while East let the deuce of clubs go.

At this point Jack had two tricks in and could have played his ace and king of spades to see if the queen would drop. Then he could play the ace and another diamond. This would get him out for down one if he played dummy's king or down two if he finessed unsuccessfully.

An alternate play would have been to play a third spade and hope that East and West would not cash their clubs but Jack decided to give the opponents the maximum chance to go wrong.

Jack led his jack of clubs. West won with the queen. If he had let the club ride around to his partner the hand would have been surely set but West just didn't think his partner held the king of clubs.

West went into a long huddle and came out with the worst possible play. He led his queen of spades. Jack proceeded to run off four spade tricks and East had to make two discards.

He solved his problem by getting rid of two clubs. South took his ace of diamonds and led a nine of clubs. West could have hopped up with the ace of clubs and led his last diamond but West completed the bad defense by playing low. East was in with the king and had to lead up to dummy's king-jack of diamonds.

The benefit of consultation is that it provokes a dialogue between dentists, ideally resulting in better diagnosis and treatment planning. This should be followed by complete patient understanding of what will be done, how long it will take, how much money it will cost and what prognosis can be expected.

The World Today

LBJ Declines Since '65 Peak

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those were President Johnson's golden days, 1965. This summer of 1967 is hot but for him they are the cold days, getting colder. If he pays attention to public opinion, and he does, it's enough to make him shiver.

Starting out in 1965 he had it all his own way, thanks to the 1964 elections. In Congress his Democrats swamped the Republicans, with 295 to 140 seats in the House, and 67 to 33 seats in the Senate, a two-thirds edge.

No wonder then, with these majorities and his ceaseless prodding, the Democratic-run Congress produced the most remarkable legislative year in history. And he had time for prodding in those days. The Vietnam war was in babyhood.

He had just begun the U.S. military buildup in 1965, with only 165,000 Americans there by the end of the year. He was criticized for being involved in the war at all, but his standing with the voters was high.

In the first six months of 1965, for example, when it was clear the troop buildup had begun in earnest, the Gallup poll showed public approval of the way he handled his job dropped from 71 to 64 per cent.

But by June public approval was back up to 70 percent. This couldn't last unless Congress was able to repeat its amazing performance in 1966 or unless the war somehow could be brought to a quick and victorious end. Neither happened.

Congress coasted in 1966 and there were no victories in Vietnam. The war became a nightmare. The troop buildup went on. There was more discontent at home.

This was reflected in the 1966 elections, giving back to the Republicans 48 House seats, three Senate seats. The Johnson breeze in Congress died away. He prodded less as he became more preoccupied by the war.

Congress dawdled this year, just as it did in 1966. The war criticism piled up on Johnson. The doves were still complaining. But so were the hawks now. They wanted Johnson to make the war tougher.

He began talking of a war dragging on indefinitely. The American death toll in Vietnam went up from 1,365 at the end of 1965 to over 12,500 now. And already there is a bad odor from the upcoming elections in Vietnam.

They were supposed to have been a shining symbol of how the United States, which claimed it was fighting the war to assure the South Vietnamese of self-determination, was helping the people establish a democratic society.

On top of the empty basket from Congress, the endless war, and Johnson's realization that he had to ask for a tax boost to pay for the war, he was drenched in the summer of 1967 with riots, the worst in history.

Few can doubt he wants to be re-elected in 1968 but the Gallup and Harris polls over the weekend must have chilled his blood. Both reported that now only 39 per cent of those quizzed approved the way he handles the presidency.

Perhaps a major reason for this sour public reaction is lack of forceful leadership. Johnson and the country, instead of giving a sense of movement, seem to be marking time.

One example: he was criticized for not sending U.S. troops fast enough into Detroit to crush the riot although it still is not clear whether he or Michigan's Gov. George Romney was responsible for the delay.

But Johnson was far from forceful when he went on television to explain—he did the explaining at midnight—why he sent the troops at all. And he has not been forceful about the riots since.

He set up a commission to study riot problems with instructions not to make its final report until next summer.

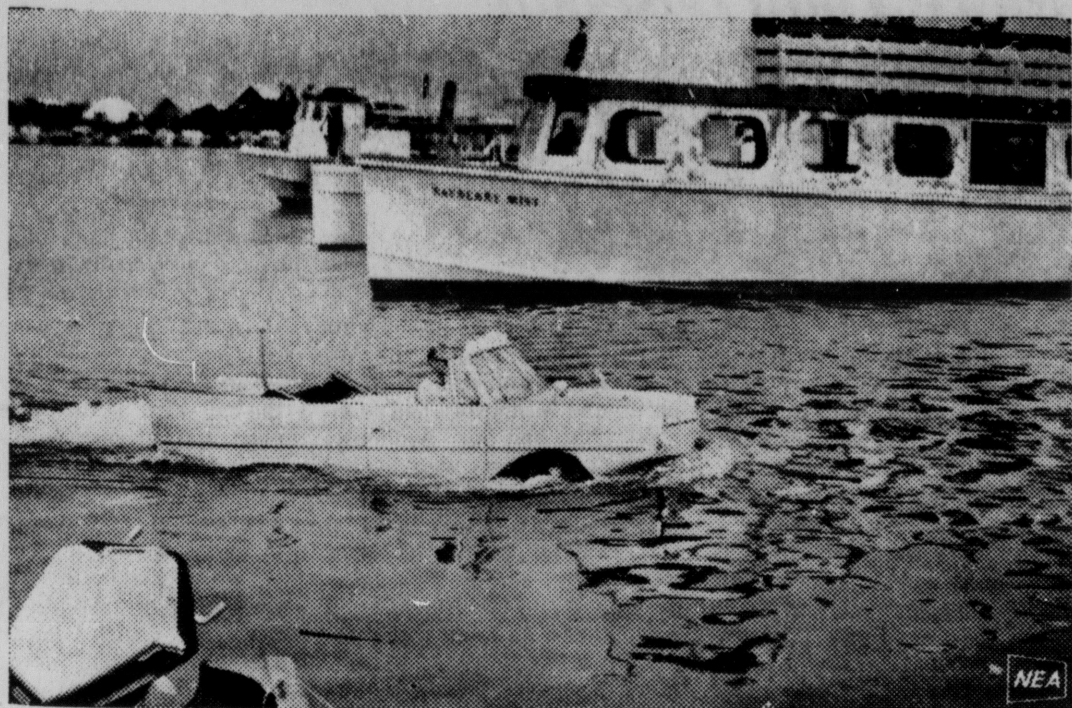

When Johnson was Senate majority leader he knew no one could achieve anything by giving orders to the other 99 senators. Solutions were obtained through compromises, sometimes called a consensus. In the presidency Johnson has given few examples of decisive leadership. Rather, he gives the impression of using his Senate technique of seeking consensus, or trying to determine public reaction, before moving.

Guest Editorial

GASTONIA (N.C.) GAZETTE: Juvenile Secrecy.—For about two decades the trend in handling juvenile crime has been toward greater secrecy. Young hoodlums were to be protected because publicizing their crimes would cause them to achieve notoriety and go on to worse activities, etc. This attitude supplanted an earlier approach which involved sensational treatment by the press of the crimes of youths. The trend to secrecy may have been in part reaction to what was considered overemphasis by metropolitan newspapers on youthful crime.

Today, there are indications that the pendulum is swinging back. Judges, law-enforcement officials — and yes, even sociologists — are concluding that tight secrecy on juveniles tends to encourage crime, not discourage it. Public light on the crimes of juvenile delinquents is essential, for community benefit if not the individual's good. Unless the public knows young gangsters are committing crimes, there will be no pressure on public officials to take necessary corrective steps.

"YOU'RE NOT GOING to tell me I see a car in the harbor, are you?" You bet. It's a car—and a boat—called an Amphicar. And it does attract a crowd.

An Auto That Braves Sea

By BOB COCHNAR and DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

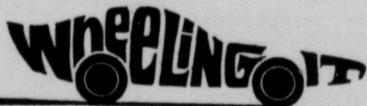

DAVIS PARK, Fire Island, N.Y.—(NEA)—When we drove the car down the boat ramp and into Great South Bay there were, as you might imagine, a few stunned bystanders.

"Look, daddy," we heard one tot scream. "There's a car in the water."

Daddy, we noted, seemed about to tell sonny that cars can't swim as he turned to look in the direction of sonny's finger. But we think he gagged on his cigarette, because all he could say was something like "Heeyagghh!"

We smiled knowingly as we engaged the twin propellers and chugged into the harbor, radio blaring and hand tapping the horn button. The car happened to be a boat, too.

The surest way to stupefy the stinkpot set and the canvas crowd is to buy an Amphicar. And even though this neat little amphibian can barely manage 10 m.p.h. at sea and 65 on land, it creates at least as much attention as a Chinese junk in the middle of Lake Lyndon B. Johnson.

Amphicar is manufactured in West Germany by Werke Karlsruhe, part of the giant combine which also produces such ordinary vehicles as Mercedes and BMW. Its American distributor is Ranchero Motors, Carlstadt, N.J.

Amphibious vehicles are, of course, nothing new. Big Army ducks have been lumbering around since World War II and old vets may remember sea-going Jeeps (but not fondly since they had a tendency to sink).

Amphicar, powered by a four-cylinder, 43-horsepower Triumph engine, is unsinkable. An electric bilge pump can push unwanted water out of the innards at the rate of six gallons a minute.

Although one of the men at Ranchero Motors told us he has driven the car off an eight-foot pier without drowning the engine or the occupants, our test of the car was not so reckless.

We drove it into Great South Bay at Patchogue, N.Y., and headed for Fire Island, about three miles across a moderate chop. At full throttle, the engine gives the twin screws sufficient power to create a wake to rival a minibattleship.

Since the craft is really more of a car than a boat, the sailing sensation is somewhat like plowing down a turnpike in a heavy rain. The weight (2,300 pounds) and the barge-like bow mean a flat ride. One does not ride with the swell, one chops through it.

Because of its curiosity value, Amphicar is the Pied Piper of the bounding main. Pleasure boats will veer off course for the second look, thus creating sizable wakes near the car, thus drenching occupants.

Clambering out of the water is surely as great a thrill as clambering in. The pilot merely points the Amphi at a likely looking beach, throws the land transmission into first, bringing power to the rear wheels, and simply churns ashore.

On land, the car has a trucklike feel and, because the engine is watertight, the noise collects in the passenger compartment. It is considerable.

Yet, for $3,000, the owner eliminates the need for a boat, trailer and car. He has all three in one. Admittedly, Amphicar does not match speedboat performance at sea or Cadillac performance ashore. But when did you last see a Cadillac in Lake Michigan? Or a speedboat on Route 66?

Now, if they can only get it to fly...

SPINOFFS: Can you really save money if you buy a car in Europe at tax-free prices? Auto-Europe, Inc., one of the country's largest firms specializing in the sale of cars in Europe, says, understandably, yes.

You can save $190 on a Volkswagen and $3,000 on a Silver Shadow Rolls-Royce, although the chances are you'll find something closer to the center of the scale.

If you're tempted by, say, an Austin-Healey, you'll save $479—more than enough for a round-trip air ticket to Europe.

Firms like Auto-Europe have simplified the procedure for purchasing a car. They also take care of all the details in having it shipped back to the States. The cars are registered, insured and are "Americanized" with the right equipment and specs.

Computers Make Prediction Errors

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—This has been a rugged year for the forecasters, most of whom have been kept busy updating, correcting painfully readjusting and, in the U.S. Treasury's case, revising downward.

The errors are so widespread—and generally on the low side when measuring anticipated revenues—that mankind has a right to wonder if the electronic computer is his friend, or at least as reliable as a friend should be.

The computer, and its tendency to look unemotionally into the future, is the machine that has made us so dependent, so reliant not just on the present but on what is yet to come.

Among the recent statistical revisions are federal income tax revenue, the death rate, state lottery returns, retail sales, the stock market.

The list is literally endless, but it is most painful and teacherous when it includes forecasts of revenue much higher than produced in reality.

New York State established a lottery this year to raise $198 million annually for schools. But revenue through July trickled in so slowly that it appears as little as $60 million will be raised.

Early this year the Johnson administration anticipated tax collections fully $7 billion higher than the rate at which they are now arriving at the Treasury. These two examples illustrate the most common error, the same one that plagues households—the anticipation of more money than turns out to be the case.

But all the errors are not misreadings of the future. Sometimes the past is revised also.

Early this month the Commerce Department reduced its estimate of homebuilding activity during June. In fact, it lowered housing figures for the past 4½ years because they did not conform to reality.

The new figures for June show housing starts at an annual rate of 1,209,000 units instead of 1,302,000 under the original figures. The new estimates, the government said, are based on improved calculations.

Nor are all the statistics bad news.

Club Notes

One of the activities of the Sedalia Boys Club which provides awards for outstanding achievement might well be applied to the "Boys of the Year" project.

To the casual observer much of what has been taking place in this program may indeed seem like melodramatic fiction but as young people enrolled in the program they repeatedly proved that truth is stranger than fiction.

The prime purpose of the program is to encourage boys between the ages of 12 and 17 to take part in community service activities.

Competitors are judged on the basis of quantity and quality of service to the home, church, school, community and the Boys Club.

Each year one boy is chosen as the "Boy of the Year" from one of the 725 Boys Clubs of America and is installed as the nation's leading example of "juvenile decency" by the President in ceremonies at the White House.

Each year the Sedalia Boys Club presents a candidate for the Contest. Monte Finley was representative for Sedalia in the 1966 competition.

Every year thousands of boys from the million member Boys Club "family" offer clear, if not spectacular proof, of the value of the Boys Clubs of America and the American philosophy of combatting juvenile delinquency through a positive approach of encouraging juvenile decency.

As one of the local Boys Club officials put it "we don't believe in just treating the symptoms; we attack the disease with preventive medicine."

The effects of this medicine can be seen each week at the Sedalia Boys Club where boys gather to have fun and learn to assume some worthwhile responsibility.

Increase Lead

Cubs Made Cardinals Earn 6-5 NL Victory

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The New York Mets finally had their night, but for the St. Louis Cardinals, it looks more and more like their year.

The rollicking Red Birds, flying along with a 9½ game National League lead on the wing, reached their largest bulge of the season the hard way Monday night, scoring thrice in the last of the ninth to beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5.

It's been going that way all year for the Cardinals, who haven't been out of the top spot since June 17. But the Mets haven't had a night like Monday's since the Fourth of July fireworks they lit under Juan Marichal.

This time, the Mets finally set off the long-burning fuse under Larry Jackson as they clipped the wings of the Philadelphia right-hander 8-3 for the first time in their history after 18 losses.

In the only other NL games, Mike McCormick won his 16th game, stopping Atlanta of seven hits as San Francisco won 6-2, and Willie Stargell's run-scoring single in a three-run eighth carried Pittsburgh by Cincinnati 4-3.

In the only American League games, the New York Yankees slipped past Baltimore 5-4 and Minnesota halted California 2-1.

Once again, it was Roger Maris, the Yankee castoff, who sent the Cardinals soaring with an assist from Cubs' right fielder Ted Savage, an ex-Cardinal.

Maris, who tripled home two earlier runs and scored a third, singled in the tying run with one out in the ninth and the winning marker scored when Savage fumbled the hit.

Savage had been a hero until then after he capped Chicago's three-run fifth inning with a run-scoring safety. Ron Santo's 26th homer leading off the ninth made it 5-3 Cubs and they looked a good bet to replace Atlanta in second place and cut the Cardinals' lead to eight games.

But a walk and hits by Lou Brock and Curt Flood set up Maris, who finished the game hitting .275 with 43 runs batted in.

Jack Fisher, who ruined Marichal's 19-0 record against the Mets on July 4, again proved the stopper as he broke Jackson's spell with his third victory—and third by the Mets—over the Phillies this year.

"This is the night," Fisher's teammates told him before the historical night and a couple of Philadelphia errors in a four-run fourth inning helped make it so.

"I knew the law of averages would catch up with Jackson sometime," Fisher said. "He wasn't pitching bad, but his defense let him down."

Fisher scattered eight hits for his eighth victory in 21 decisions as the Mets reached their longest winning streak of the season, five.

McCormick's performance was not as eventful as Fisher's, but it did tie him for the major league lead in games won.

The Giants' left-hander, who has lost five times, yielded only seven hits and had the Braves blanked until Cleto Boyer hit his 21st homer with a man on in the ninth.

But it wasn't enough to over-

Missing Persons

Confusion Seen In Browns Camp

HIRAN, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns' camp has been a headquarters for the Bureau of Missing Persons this summer. The holdout of five veterans and temporary absences of Army personnel have contributed to mass confusion.

When the Browns met Philadelphia in their first exhibition, Coach Blanton Collier had three strange faces in his defensive backfield and secondary personnel at several other key positions.

Leroy Kelly, John Wooten, Sidney Williams and Mike Howell still were holding out. Howell was away at Army camp with Paul Warfield, Ernie Kellerman and Randy Schultz and Ross Fichtner had injured ribs.

Another holdout, John Brown, already had been traded and Williams later was dealt away.

Reserve quarterback Jim Niowski, later traded to Washington for Dick Shiner, also was holding out.

Frank Ryan, recuperating from surgery on his right elbow, was used sparingly—although he seems to be throwing well—while Collier took a long look at Gary Lane as a backup quarterback.

The holdout of Kelly, who rushed for 1,141 yards last year, gave Collier a solid look at Larry Conjar, the workhorse of Notre Dame's 1966 national champions. On early evidence, he seems to have it made. Kelly is back in harness, although determined to play out his option.

Eventually, Kelly and Ernie Green will be at the running posts, backed by Conjar, Schultz and veteran Nick Pietrosante or second-year man Charley Jaraway.

The Browns might have the three top receivers in the National Football League in Warfield at split end, Gary Collins at flanker and Milt Morin at tight end. Morin could be the coming tight end in the league. Eppie Barney, fleet rookie flanker from Iowa State, is a fine prospect and Clifton McNeil is available.

The Browns' success in running and protecting the passer last year came from the solid offensive line and tackles Dick Schafrath and Monte Clark, guards Gene Hickerson and Wooten and center Fred Hoaglin will be back. The best looking kids are John Demarie of LSU and Joe Taffoni of U. of Tennessee, Martin Branch.

Defense and a so-so pass rush were the big problems in 1966 and probably will be again with the front line men aging and few replacements available.

Paul Wiggins, 32, and Bill Glass, 32, again man the ends with possible help from rookies Eugene Jackson of Texas Western and Jack Gregory of Chattanooga. Jim Kanicki, Walt Johnson and Frank Parker are the tackles.

Vince Costello, the 35-year-old middle linebacker, might give way to Dale Lindsey, a third year pro from Western Kentucky. Jim Houston and John Brewer will be the outside backer, although Bob Matheson, the No. 1 draft from Duke, could earn a regular job.

Carl Ward, an offensive back at Michigan, is getting a crack at Howell's corner job opposite veteran Erich Barnes. When Fichtner is healthy he will be at one safety and Kellerman at the other.

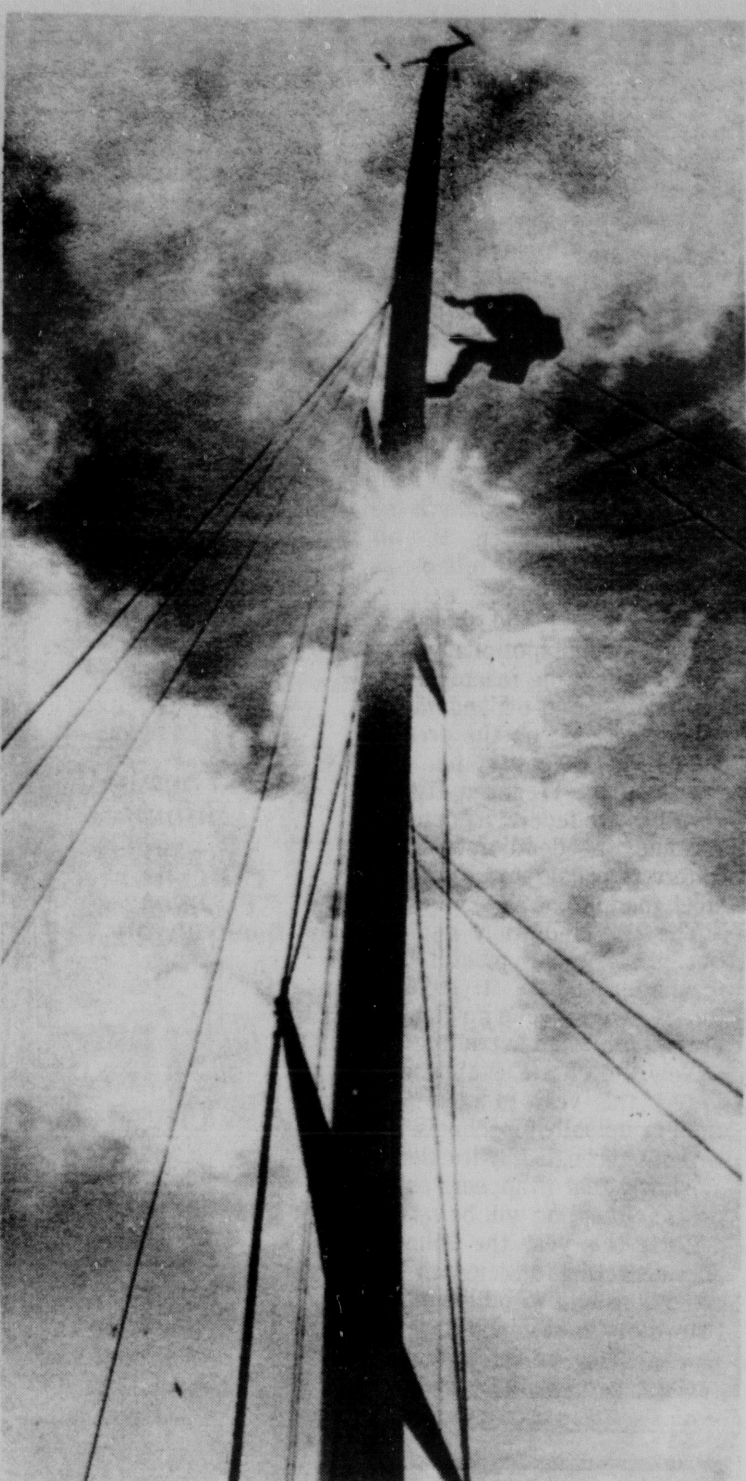

One of the most interesting battles has been between field goal kickers Lou Groza, the 43-year-old veteran of 21 pro seasons, and Don Cockroft, the No. 3 draftee from Adams State. Cockroft also is a punter, giving Collins a change to rest.

All in all, it has been a stormy summer for the Browns. The effect of the holdouts on the other veterans remains to be seen, but if the Browns pull together, they rate as a top contender. If they don't, it could be a long cold winter.

Ferm Has Lead

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP) — Sweden's Bjorn Ferm held the lead of the U.S. modern Pentathlon Championship with 3,048 points, but former LaSalle College swimmer Don Walheim was close behind.

Walheim's strong swimming performance Monday gave him a three-day total of 2,947 points, to move ahead of Boston's Bob Beck, now with 2,850.

More Than Baseball

Twins, Angels Didn't Quite Follow The Ad

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Outside the stadium it said Baseball Tonight, but inside the Twins and Angels were involved in something Abner Doubleday never dreamed of.

Minnesota's 2-1 victory over California was a game in which the Twins didn't score when they should have and did score when they shouldn't have. A game where the losing pitcher went all the way and only allowed seven hits.

A game that had only three runs scored but took three hours and 12 minutes to play. A game that even Bill Rigney's brand new Moose from El Paso couldn't change.

In the only other American League game Monday, New York beat Baltimore 5-4.

In the National League, St. Louis edged Chicago 6-5, Pittsburgh nudged Cincinnati 4-3, San Francisco beat Atlanta 6-2 and New York took Philadelphia 8-3. Los Angeles and Houston were idle.

But to begin at the beginning of this California-Minnesota business, the outcome of which put the Twins a full game ahead of Chicago in the American League pennant race. The beginning was the top of the seventh inning.

Tribute For Old Golf Pro

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — "You're only here for a short visit. Don't hurry. Don't worry. And be sure to smell the flowers along the way."

Exactly when golfing great Walter Hagen made that statement is lost in the mists of time.

But to Hagen, now 75 and muted by three operations for throat cancer, the flowers probably never smelled sweeter than Monday night.

Some 250 people, including Arnold Palmer and former Masters and U.S. Open champion Cary Middlecoff turned this remote, northern lower Michigan resort into the golf capital of the world, attending a testimonial dinner for "The Haig."

And despite the fact that Hagen, father of modern professional golf and only man ever to win five PGA titles and four British Opens, could not amuse them with the antics and tales that made him as famous off the links as on, he obviously enjoyed himself.

A good bit of the praise for Hagen, who has lived in this area for some 10 years, was good natured ribbing that concentrated not so much on how he became the first man in history to win $1 million swinging a club, but how he spent it.

Hagen, besides being the only man to ever to win five PGA titles, is also the only one ever to have won four of them in a row. He quit playing competitive golf in 1939 and stopped playing social golf in 1945.

Expansion Study Into Second Day

NEW YORK (AP) — The United Soccer Association's expansion committee went into a second day of closed-door sessions today discussing a possible merger with the rival National Professional Soccer League.

"It is possible that an important announcement will be made after meeting," a United Association spokesman said.

The committee met in a day-long session Monday, but officials declined comment on their discussions. A report was delivered to the league's club owners.

"We feel it would be improper, perhaps harmful, to either or both leagues, to make any comment at this time," a league spokesman said.

The NPSL said it may have one or two representatives at the meeting.

Dave Boswell of the Twins and George Brunet of the Angels were locked in a scoreless battle and Minnesota had managed only one hit. Suddenly, however, the bases were loaded with none out on three singles—one legitimate, one a bad hop and one about. Surely the Twins would score.

Surely, not. Zoilo Versalles hit a shallow fly to right. Cesar Tovar hit a shallow fly to left. Tony Oliva hit a line drive, at least, but Roger Repoz caught it.

We repair now to the bottom of the seventh. Short and sweet. Repoz hit one out of the park. 1-0, Angels.

The Twins' eighth began quietly enough. Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison flied out meekly. And when Hank Izquierdo hit a gentle grounder to

US Keeps Coveted Trophy

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States has retained the Wightman Cup for a seventh consecutive year with a 6-1 victory so impressive there seems little chance Great Britain's women tennis stars will cart the silver vase across the Atlantic for some years to come.

The Americans swept all three matches Monday in the windup of the three-day, two-nation matches and now lead 33-6 in annual Wightman competition begun in 1923.

Miss Nancy Richey, 24-year-old Texan who ranks No. 2, won Monday's opening match against Virginia Wade 3-6, 8-6, 6-2 for the fourth and decisive U.S. point in the best-of-7 match series.

Then Mrs. Billie Jean King, 23, of Long Beach, Calif., overwhelmed Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones, blonde left-hander who held the No. 1 British ranking. It took Mrs. King only 34 minutes to win 6-1, 6-2.

Bespectacled Billie Jean accounted for 2½ points of the U.S. total. In addition to her easy conquest of Mrs. Jones Monday, she defeated Miss Wade, No. 2 British player on Saturday 6-3, 6-2 and teamed with 19-year-old Rosemary Casals of San Francisco in a doubles victory Sunday. Miss Casals, in her first year of Wightman Cup play, and Miss King won over the Wade-Jones pairing 10-8, 6-4.

Miss Christine Truman, 26, scored the only point for the British by defeating Miss Casals Sunday 3-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Boulder Wins First Round Game

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Defending champion Boulder, Colo., won its first round game in the national semipro baseball tournament Monday night, defeating Ocala, Fla., 7-1.

In the other games, Little Chute, Wis., defeated Jackson, Miss., 9-2, and Tucson, Ariz., beat Middlesex, N. C., 7-4.

Both the Boulder and Little Chute victories came in seven innings under the tourney's 6-run lead rule.

Bill Brown, Don Rose and Pat Moriarity each drove in two runs for Boulder.

Little Chute's Bob Felda cracked a two-run homer that started the Wisconsin team on its winning spree.

Today's games:
2 p.m.—Tulsa vs. Vallon, Nev. (loser eliminated)
5:30 p.m.—Wichita Cessna vs. Kokomo, Ind. (first round)

8 p.m.—Halstead, Kan. vs. Valdosta, Ga. (second round)
10 p.m.—Edinburg, Tex. vs. Lexington, Ky. (first round) short, the inning appeared ended.

But hold. Jim Fregosi threw the ball over the first baseman's head and there was Hank on second. A single by Jackie Hernandez, a double by Ted Uhlaender and the Twins were up by one. But it wasn't over yet.

Two singles by the Angels in the bottom of the ninth with one out made things tense for the Twins. Jim Kaat, normally a starter, came in for Boswell and got Bubba Morton to line out. Al Worthington, a battle-hardened reliever, came in for Kaat. Larry Stubing hit for Bobby Knoop.

Larry Stubing? Why sure, bought only three days ago from El Paso. This was his first time up in the majors. They call him Moose for physical reasons.

A passed ball. Men on second and third. Your big chance, Moose. A decent single could win the game.

But a called third strike ended that dream and, mercifully, the game. Brunet, 11-14, took the loss, despite his fine performance.

In the Yankees' victory, starting pitcher Steve Barber and Joe Pepitone each drove in a pair of runs and reliever Bill Monbouquette helped Barber to his eighth victory of the season.

KC Idle As Cards Win Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A come-from-behind three-run rally gave the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday night and boosted their league lead to 9½ games.

A walk, an infield out, three singles and an error provided the Cards with a winning recipe. The big blows were Roger Maris' single scoring Lou Brock, and outfielder Ted Savage's error that allowed Curt Flood to race all the way home from first.

Kansas City had the day off. The A's open a series with the White Sox in Chicago tonight. Jim Nash and Chuck Dobson will start for Kansas City in the twi-night double header. Fred Klages and Wilbur Wood will be on the mound for Chicago.

The Cards moved ahead, 3-0 in the third as Maris tripled to drive in two runs and scored on Orlando Cepeda's sacrifice fly.

Chicago picked up one run in the fourth, three in the fifth in which a single by Savage capped the rally, and Ron Santo's ninth-inning homer first appeared to be the icing on the cake.

Al Jackson won it with three innings of one-hit relief work. It was his seventh victory against four losses. John Hartenstein was the loser although he worked only one-third of the ninth.

The Cubs will try again tonight to slow down the Cardinal Express with Rich Nye scheduled to start against Ray Washburn.

Knob Noster Eagles won the Mid Central Missouri Khoury Leagues Chic Division Monday night 11-9 over Sedalia Pepsi Cola. The Eagles were winners of the Tri County Khoury League and they ended the season with 20 wins and 1 loss to Pepsi Cola Saturday night.

A 'Friend Who Knows' Advises Teen-Agers

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have seen round footstools made with coffee cans and large juice cans. I hope someone can tell me how to make them.—CATHERINE

DEAR POLLY—This Pointer is for all teen-agers who have the problem of getting along with their parents. Do what they ask you to do. Do your work with a smile. Be in (at home) at a certain hour. Girls, be very careful what you say and do. Boys can do more than girls because they are bigger and stronger. Do not go to every dance, social and party as it will not pay. Take this advice from someone who knows.—A FRIEND

DEAR TEEN-AGERS—This letter sounds like sage advice from one who has learned a lesson the hard way.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Gifts to take to bridal showers can pose a problem to those with limited budgets. I found an inexpensive but thoughtful gift. Save empty aspirin or pill bottles, wash and dry thoroughly and fill each bottle with different herbs and spices from your own shelf. Label with white adhesive tape put on evenly. Also you can label and fill small bottles of mustard, syrup, honey, catsup and other condiments. This will give the bride a start and save her from having to buy so many things at one time.

A box of clean rags is also most welcome. I used the one I received for years and until I had accumulated some of my own. There were old bath towels for scrubbing and polishing and washed and worn flannel for shining shoes, furniture, floors, etc. I do hope some bride is the beneficiary of one of these hints which I know to be practical.—VIOLET

DEAR POLLY—I sew a lot and find a darning needle is the handiest thing to smooth out gathers and hold material close up to the stitch of the machine. I use it to hold the material in place just where I want it when the stitch is made.

When putting pins and needles in a pin cushion put the pins on one side and the needles on the other. This saves a lot of pricked fingers when reaching for pins.—MRS. R. D.

The Way from His Heart Is Through Your Stomach

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Because of nervous indigestion I entered psychotherapy a year ago. Though it has helped me to understand the cause of my stomach trouble it has not improved it. I know now that I am afraid of what the future holds for me and the man in my life. Until recently he has said that he could not marry me because his wife won't give him a divorce. Now he refuses to even discuss our future. My psychotherapist says I need patience as my masochistic relationship to this man is a very complex problem...

ANSWER: He's telling you, you know, that you adore hurt, humiliation and betrayal.

He's mistaken. You don't enjoy them. If you did, your stomach would also take joy in the emotional diet you're feeding it. But it isn't, is it? It's kicking up the biggest row it can in protest against hurt, humiliation and betrayal.

Do you know the true reason why we masochists cling to people who hurt, humiliate and betray us? Because we think they're brilliant, that's why. We cling to them, not because we enjoy their cruelty but because we secretly credit them with an absolute X-ray intelligence, a brightness so penetrating that they can see right through our front of sweet, patient loyalty to the actual fraud we are. They know what an unsweet, demanding, self-interested, impatient stinker we actually are. As nobody else has so clearly seen through our pretenses, we regard them as marvels of brain power. That's what entitles them to despise us. Yes, ma'am, we're mad with love for our sadist because he's got a genius IQ.

He gets the brush the very moment we are willing to discard the pretenses and become the stinker we are—impatient, demanding, mean and fed up.

This stands to reason. His brightness is no longer impressive. There is no phony front left for his penetrating intelligence to penetrate. As he no longer seems brilliant, he's no longer entitled to despise us. It's over. And all the king's men cannot restore him the dazzle of his smartness.

Don't be discouraged. If this baby in your life still retains some dazzle for you, he's got none for that honest stomach of yours. And if you'll listen to what it's telling you instead of telling yourself that you love hurt and humiliation, you'll soon put baby out of your life.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Once upon a time Ismael Laguna was the lightweight champion of the world. The trouble is, nobody seems to remember those good old days.

Laguna, who will try to regain the title Aug. 16 when he takes on the current champion, Carlos Ortiz, at Shea Stadium, took the title away from Ortiz and lost it back to him in two bouts that didn't attract too much fistic attention, except for close followers of lightweights, of which there aren't too many.

Laguna held the title in 1965, taking it away from Ortiz in April in Panama City and losing it back to him in November in San Juan. It was a short reign, but it was great while it lasted.

Since Laguna is from Panama and Ortiz hails from Puerto Rico, the home folks were satisfied in both cases.

"Being the challenger is no fun," says Laguna. "If you're not the champion, you're just another fighter."

But Ortiz, who beat Joe Brown in 1962 to win the lightweight crown the first time around, would like to break Brown's record of 12 defenses. Brown's reign lasted five years, seven months and 28 days, from 1956 to 1962 when Ortiz took the title away. The Laguna bout will be the tenth defense for Carlos, who has an impressive 48-5-1 record.

At 30, Ortiz is an old pro of the fight world, having been around for 12 years. "Fighting," he says, "is something I enjoy very much. Training is something else again. I wouldn't mind fighting every day if the training wasn't so hard."

When Laguna won the title in '65, few people had ever heard of him. That's a situation that continues to exist, even though he briefly wore the crown.

It's not that Laguna isn't popular or that he uses the wrong spray deodorant or anything of the sort, it's just that boxing has reached a point where nobody knows who's who.

O.K. You have an excuse for not knowing who the current heavyweight champion is (nobody else knows either), and you probably do know that Nino Benvenuti is the middleweight champion (everybody loves Nino), but do you know who the featherweight champion is?

If your answer was Willie Pep or Sandy Sadler, you just said a lot about what's wrong with boxing at the moment. The correct answer is Vincente Saldivar. (That is the correct answer, isn't it?)

How about welterweights? If you think Curtis Cokes is a soft drink that things go better with, you're doing the champ a great disservice.

If you can list the top three challengers in any division, you're an expert's expert.

But, as Laguna points out, the champion is the only man in the division who really counts and it's his feeling that late on the evening of Aug. 16 the champion's name will be Ismael Laguna.

Bohman Is Top Man In Qualifiers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
John Bohmann of Seguin, Tex., led the nation's qualifiers Monday in the 36-hole playoffs for spots in the National Amateur Golf Championship at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Bohmann shot a spectacular 69-68—137, seven under par, on the Braeburn Country Club course to claim one of the 26 spots in the final field that was up for grabs in qualifications across the country.

The majority of the qualifications will be held Tuesday in 29 locations, with 1,427 golfers competing for 117 spots in the field for the finals Aug. 30-Sept. 2.

Earlier qualifications were held in Seattle, Wash., Milwaukee, Wis., and Albuquerque, N.M. In all, 1,814 players will compete for 146 positions.

Four players are exempt from qualifications—defending champion Gary Cowan of Canada, 1965 champion Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla., 1964 champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., and British Amateur Champion Robert B. Dickson, Muskogee, Okla.

KO's Are Predicted In Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Both lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz and challenger Ismael Laguna have predicted they will unleash knockout lightning bolts in their title fight Wednesday night.

They didn't even score a single knockdown in their two previous 15-round title bouts so their boasts may just be psychological warfare or sticks for the ballyhoo drums.

But you can bet on one thing — there will be noise aplenty at Shea Stadium.

There will be thousands of Panamanians on hand to root for Laguna, the Tiger of Panama, and many more thousands of Puerto Ricans to whom it up for Ortiz, the blue-eyed Puerto Rican-born New Yorker.

The 30-year-old champion, in the city after finishing his hard work at Chatham Township, N.J., loosened up in an uptown gym.

Sikeston In Rally For 8-3 Victory

LAMAR, Colo.(AP)—Trailing 2-3 after five innings, Sikeston, Mo., erupted for six runs in the sixth to defeat El Campo, Tex., 8-3 Monday in the finals of the regional Connie Mack baseball league playoff.

The victory qualified Sikeston for the league's world series for the 16-18 year-old players at Farmington, N.M., beginning Friday.

A two-out single by Bob Sacuda produced El Campo's first run and the Texans made it 3-0 with two runs in the second on Jack Herd's run-scoring double followed by a ground out and an error on which Herd scored.

Sikeston got two of the runs back in the fifth with the help of an error and wrapped up the game on Bruce Farris' bases-loaded triple and a run-scoring double by Jim Limbaugh in the sixth. Two errors and two walks figured in the scoring.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL* BARGAIN DAYS

Dear Mom:

Are we rushing things at Penney's? Maybe... but with good reasons.

We know school opening is still weeks away—but those weeks will slip away fast. So... we offer Bargain Days—and give you an opportunity to buy dresses, shirts, pants—most of the things the kids will need for school at truly bargain prices.

Instead of heading for the beach tomorrow, take your Penney charge card and head for Penney's! The money you'll save on Back-to-School things will help pay for some vacation fun.

Dear kids:

THE PENNEY STORY

Should you throw away your iron or keep it as a door stop?

By ROBERTA NASH

Perhaps your iron isn't obsolete just yet. But with Penn-Prest, most women never iron at all. They just let their dryer do the ironing.

(Of course, if you haven't a tumble dryer, you may have to touch up in some cases. But just a touch up. Even then, I've found you really say good-bye to the drudgery of ironing.)

Please don't confuse Penn-Prest with some other 'permanent press' process that may have disappointed you. This one is different.

The J. C. Penney Company stands behind it.

THE PENNEY STORY

Why make such a big deal out of quality?

By ROBERTA NASH

I asked a Penney store manager the question once and when he finally decided I was serious, he said, "If I could use only one word to describe the phenomenon of Penney's, I'd pick the word, quality."

"Mr. Penney has always been a fanatic on the subject," he continued. "They say the only thing that still makes Mr. Penney angry is when someone suggests we compromise Penney quality to make a lower price."

SPECIAL BUY!
Never-iron* sport shirts
at a buy-a-bunch price!
